that District. Traverse City's Francis Gladiators have had a very good season and should prove the winners in the Forest District where little corruption seems on hand. Alcona won the Huron Straits Conference which includes some Class A teams, face only teams they have already beaten twice during regular season in the Tawas Area District. Alcona, located between Lincoln and Harrisville in Alcona County is led by 6 foot, 6 inch Gary Gunderson and his cousin Gene Gunderson, 6 foot, 2 inches. Not all of these favorites will come through, however, as upsets are the rule rather than the exception in tourney play. Without stretching the imagination too much, Graying could come through at Houghton Lake, E Jordan at Gaylord, Charlevoix at Petoskey, Oscoda at Tawas and and Pfingst at the Hawthorn. The boys will play the Regionals on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, March 10, 11, 12 and 14. Frank L. Bond is Tournament Manager. Elmer Fenton will be in charge of the boys. The Stewagon basketball and basketball team, coached by Whitey Madsen as spotter. The officials will be William Beach, George Injasoulain, Thomas McDonnell and Leon Hinkley all of Alpena. Bud Smith will be the referee. The boys' basketball team will be an official scorer. Admission is free. The boys' basketball team will be set at $1.00 for reserved seats, general admission, admission for students, 50c.

Tonight (Thursday) the Grand Rapids and the Rooming House basketball teams will play. The Bucks will clash at 8 p. m. in the Houghton Lake gym. The winner will advance to the Saturday night Championship round a will face the winner of the Houghton Lake City Lake City game. The match will take place at 8 p.m. on Wednesday night.

Grayling who blasted Houghton Lake 72 to 57 in the Grayling game on February 24, has a very good chance against Roscommon, who will appear. The Bobcats are the only competitor that beat Grayling and Roscommon have defeated the Vikings twice.

Bob Cats a more severe trimmer than Roscommon did in either of their meetings of this year. Roscommon has also lost its streak of regular from Rick Poff with an ankle injury as well as a first line substitute. It could make a big difference. Grayling goes into the game in tip-physical condition. An injury

Gary Springs, first string Viking sub is healed and he is ready go.

It will be "go for broke",
both the Vikings and Bucks the winner of this game should

Tourist Industry Outlook Good

The outlook for the tourist industry in Northern Michigan is good. That prediction is made by W. Paul Strassmann, Michigan State University economist, in a publication about "Economic Growth in Northern Michigan."

So They Say

when his TV set went on the blink. Graying Radio & TV will calm him down with a quick analysis of the trouble and an accurate repair job at moderate cost.

GRAYING

120 N. Michigan

"If parks and recreational facilities are expanded generously, tourists will spend 100 to 150 per cent more money in Northern Michigan in 1970 than the average of 1954-56," so states Mr. Strassmann. Mr. Strassmann wrote this general bulletin about the "Economic Growth of Northern Michigan" for the M.S.U. Institute for Community Development and Services. A series of general bulletins are being issued by the Institute for the public-spirited citizens and community leaders.

His estimate of increased tourist spending, Mr. Strassmann points out, assumes that the national economy will not be in a recession and that the amount of sunshine and automobile production will be fairly good without being perfect. The economist explains that the Northern Lower Peninsula is more sensitive to what happens in the automobile industry of Southern Michigan than the Upper Peninsula, where many of the tourists are from Milwaukee and Chicago and other areas with more stable economies.

"An area with a major industry that is likely to expand two or three times as fast as the national economy may, in this respect, should consider itself fortunate," he comments.

He writes in the MSU booklet: "The cool, pollen-free summer climate, the lakes, the forests, the deer and the winter ski slopes bring in vacationers who spend money. They expect a vacation for such things as pizza pies and rented canoes come to more than a hundred million dollars a year."

"Tourism is, in effect, an export industry more profitable for Northern Michigan than either mining, manufacturing or agriculture," he says.

Two factors, he stresses, play an important part in the tourist business. The growth of tourism depends upon the number of people who might want a vacation and on the amount of money they have for this purpose.

In measuring population potential, Mr. Strassmann estimates that Northern Michigan will have a population of 34 per cent larger in 1970 than in 1955. This estimate projects the population for Southern Michigan which sends 2 of 3 present visitors to the north, and the figures for neighboring states, where the other 1 of 3 now comes from. This 34 per cent increase is 10 per cent greater than for the total nation. The nation expected increase by 1970 will be 204,000,000 or 24 per cent greater than the 1955 total, according to federal experts. Some of the present economic trends in Southern Michigan may retard the population growth, so the total anticipated growth might be closer to 26 per cent, he concludes.

Mr. Strassmann raises some questions about maintenance of tourist attractions in Northern Michigan. He says that tourists do not travel to Northern Michigan to eat cherry pies, to sleep in motels, or to buy souvenir salt and pepper shakers. They do not go there primarily to buy what the people of the north have to sell; they mainly come to enjoy what is freely available; cool air, forest scenery, blue water. It is the supply of these freely available attractions which must be maintained in terms of conservation and access, if sales of other goods are to rise.

For boating, fishing and swimming, new land must be acquired. Mr. Strassmann says if the public is to enjoy remote shores made accessible by new highways, "it supply does not keep up with demand, if tourists get less for their money in Michigan, they will go elsewhere."

In a discussion of state parks in the Upper Peninsula, he comments that "if Laughing White-Falls, Pictured Rocks, Grand Marais, Fort Drummond, and other areas are developed by the state, park attendance should rise from 1,422,000 in 1954-56 to about 6,500,000 by 1970."

Mr. Strassmann observes, "It is clear that some villages and towns will benefit far more than others, in which towns

Expect 100 To 200 New Laws From 1,000 Bills To Be Sponsored

CITIZENS WILL OBEY between 100 and 200 more laws next year.

These will be the successful bills from the estimated 1,000 legislators who are expected to meet in Lansing in the weeks and months ahead.

The new laws will range from some obscure correction in the state code to important, and perhaps vexing, revisions of the state's tax structure.

Michigan's present laws would be amended, like the prohibition against watching a ball game on Sunday.

Lawmakers have created their own legends in Michigan.

One member of the legislature is said to have come to a session pledged to vote "no" on everything simply because "the people have too many laws now."

Another this year sponsored a bill that has been defeated every time it appeared since he first introduced it 25 years ago. Someone suggested starting a "Quarter-Century Club."

Statisticians curious enough to do the job once figured it costs $2,000 to sponsor a bill in the legislature.

The bill starts as an idea in the mind of someone who sees the need for more controls, fewer controls, better law enforcement, or less, more state services or, maybe, for no reason.

There is always a number of bills legislators sponsor because a voter back in their districts asked them to, and most of them die without fanfare or excessive sorrow.

It is then possible for the legislator to return home and soothe the voter who had the idea, thusly.

Gee, I tried on your bill. I introduced it and fought like a tiger, but those other fellows just wouldn't go along."

Proposals come to the legislature as ideas and are put into bill form by experts known as bill-drafters. It is a rare occasion when a legislator drafts his own bill.

Each bill must be read three times, though the first two times are within seconds of each other. This is immediately before it is referred to a committee for study. The third reading is just before a final vote.

Usually, a bill is never completely read aloud.

Committees work on a bill, listen to the pros and cons. The committee vote is often the most important. Many bills never get out of committee to be considered on the floor.

When they do, they are placed on a debate schedule known as "general orders" or "special order on general orders," giving it a priority. After debate, it goes to third reading.

Third-reading brings the final vote and, if it passes, the bill goes to the opposite house where the process is duplicated before it is sent to the governor's office for his signature.

MORE THAN 3,000 state employees will get an extra pay raise July 1.

It will be in addition to the seven per cent boost granted all employees under the merit system by the state civil service commission.

Reason for the extra increase involves adjustments in ratings and levels and the changes are being made generally in the highest and lowest classifications.

The cost will be between $157,000 and $230,000 a year.

Windy Gets "Collared"

A stranger walked into Fudge Barton's store the other day wearing one of those "Chesterfield" coats. When the boys saw the fancy velvet collar, they broke out laughing.

The stranger seemed to ignore them and went on about his business. He even pretended he didn't hear Windy's remark about the "big city" coat. Then, on leaving, he walked over to Windy.

"I gather you find my coat peculiar," he said. "Well, where I come from we're so peculiar we even extend it to our strangers." With that, he shook Windy's hand.

From where I sit, the twist on the old adage is true: "clothes don't make the man." We ought to judge a man for what he is. That's tolerance, something we ought to practice every day.

For example, you like coffee... I like a glass of beer. That doesn't make either of us "different" or anything to laugh at.

British Socialism Fails

Britain's 13-year-old experiment in socialism, it now appears, is being written off as a failure. Private enterprise emerges stronger than ever.

Thus, speaks U. S. News & World Report in a detailed feature article. These and other such findings come from highly authoritative sources, including a parliamentary committee, industrial and management organizations and other experts. Matters have even reached the point where the Labor Party, which carried the banner of full socialism for so long, is changing its stand.

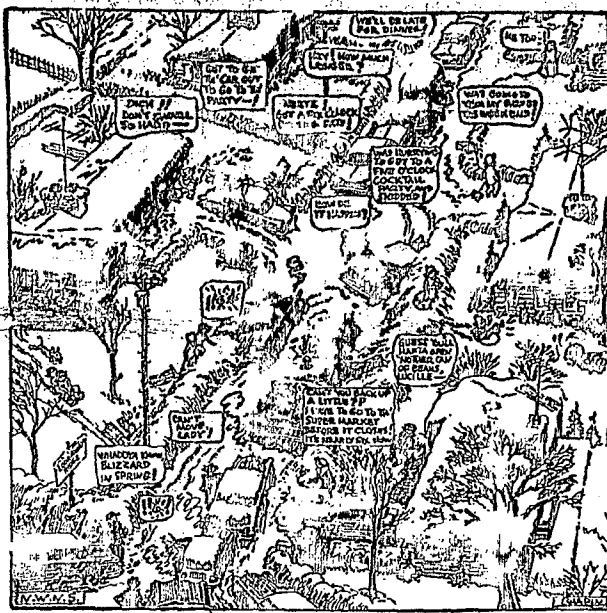

In general terms, the magazine sums up certain facts that have emerged. "One is that efficiency in the nationalized industries has tended to be lower than in comparable private industries. Another is that nationalized enterprises have higher running costs, for the reason that their managers aren't under the same pressure to keep in the black as are private enterprise managers; the government picks up the tab for losses. A third is that prices in nationalized industries are kept artificially low for political reasons, bear no relationship to costs, and the result is higher taxes. And, surprising as it may seem to some, labor relations have been no better in a nationalized enterprise than in private enterprise, and in certain fields they have been much worse.

As a specific example, U. S. News describes what has happened in coal, one of the basic enterprises socialized by the Labor Party between 1946 and 1951. More than a billion dollars has been poured into the mines to modernize and maintain them and the coal labor force has been increased by 11,000. Yet the mines produced less coal in 1957 than in 1951. There have been constant deficits, amounting to $75 million over a 10-year period. And labor troubles have been rampant, causing huge production losses.

On the other hand the steel industry—which was returned to private hands after a brief period of state ownership—provides what U. S. News terms "a striking contrast." Production has greatly expanded, a profit has been earned and prices have been reduced. Wages are high by British standards and labor relations have been excellent.

Other socialized enterprises have had a melancholy history. The Commission which operates railroads and other commercial transportation showed a $425 million deficit in the 1947-57 period. British Overseas Airways corporation dropped $75 million. The government-owned cable and wireless service just managed to break even. And the deficits don't include government assistance for capital-investment programs. Meanwhile, private enterprises have been prospering, have paid their own way, have financed expansion and improvement out of earnings and by private investment, and, as a rule, give better service at lower cost.

This, in brief outline, is why socialism has produced a vast amount of expensive disillusionment in England. The effects promise to be far-reaching indeed. The U. S. News article ends: "One result is that political lines are being redrawn.

"In effect, more and better capitalism is the new campaign slogan of Britain's Labor Party. Old-fashioned socialism is quietly being ditched."

Five Stephenson live traps, five tagging crates, 12 shipping crates and five wooden hand sleds are being constructed at CCC Camp Higgins Lake, eight miles south of Grayling on US-27, and will be used on a project for live trapping, tagging and transfer of deer from the Crawford Game Refuge to other areas not presently populated with deer. The project is being carried on in cooperation with the Game Division of the Department of Conservation for the purpose of studying migratory habits and condition of the deer as well as to stock other areas, according to chief foreman Andrew K. Braidwood. The equipment will be placed in deer-infested swamp areas early in March. Six weeks time will be consumed in the operation.

Schweitzer & Wilson, wholesale meat plant, located on Railroad Street next to Shoppengans Inn Annex, has been moved to new quarters due to lack of room. The Salling Hanson Co. warehouses located on the Michigan Central railroad have been secured by this firm and are being converted into a packing plant in addition to their wholesale meat department.

If anyone can think of anything bigger-hearted than a fellow to buy choice alfalfa hay and have it distributed in the wilds to feed half-starved deer, we don't know what it is. George Burke doesn't forget the kiddies around here and this year he tossed a flock of dollars into buying hay for our deer. This was distributed in several parts of the county.

Chamber of Commerce Minutes

February 12, 1959
Members Present: Rochette, Bond, Jansen, DuBois, Wood, Sorenson, Johnson, Wolff and Strong.
Members Absent: None.
Guests: Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Holcomb, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hat.
Meeting opened by President Sorenson at 5:05 P. M.
Guests were welcomed by President Sorenson and a cordial invitation was extended to return at any time. He also expressed his wish that other members should feel free to attend Board meetings.

Motion by Jensen and seconded by DuBois that the minutes be accepted as read.

Bills presented by DuBois for payment. Motion by Rochette and seconded by Wood that all bills presented are to be paid and the Treasurer's report be accepted as read.

Mail: The Walled Lake Senior class letter was read to the Board. This letter was typical of several received from other schools in reply to the chamber's invitation to 100 schools to visit our Grayling Winter Sports Park. The Board were told that two schools had accepted and have come to our park.

Motion by Wood and seconded by Strong that Eric Post again be appointed as Chairman of the Canoe Race Committee for 1959. A hearty thank you was extended to him for the past several years of successful management.

The Board expressed the request that the President of Winter Sports, Bill Joseph, is to be asked to present the Sno-Sculpture checks to the winners of the school contest.

John Deckrow was unable to judge the sculpture this year. Mr. Deckrow suggested that Grant Thompson who has built many beautiful ice thrones, be this year's judge. Mr. Thompson has been asked and accepted. He requested that Leo Isenbauer assist. The judging will be done at 10:00 A. M. Saturday, February 14th.

Motion by Strong and seconded by Wood that a $100.00 check be written to cover the Sno-Sculpture class awards. The Manager is to collect from the other sponsors.

Mr. Strong presented the proposed place mat designed by Cadillac Printing and explained to the Board that the cost was one cent each in lots of 100,000. Several of the Board members are to take this design to places of business, such as the hotel, restaurants and motels to offer them at cost. The mat is designed as an invitation to industry to look at Grayling as a place to locate their industry.

After the Board made some corrections and suggestions and approved the design, Mr. Dale Hat and Mr. Frank Bond each ordered 1,000 for use in their motels.

It was explained to the Board that radio station WHGR had offered the Crawford County Chamber of Commerce a 15 minute radio community service spot each Monday morning. This free publicity may be used by any organization to publicize events by calling the Chamber and making arrangements to go down to Houghton Lake for the broadcast. A report was made by Hayes on the zoning meeting he attended in Lansing at Michigan State University. The meeting was attended by Mr. Russell Carlson, Clare Madsen, Don Gothro, John H. Peterson and Hayes.

A report was made by Membership Committee Chairman, Leon Rochette. The committee are making their calls with good results.

The Manager has been instructed to consult others for a change in stationery design.

Motion by Bond and seconded by Wolff that the meeting be adjourned at 6:00 P. M.

even to buy a 6 month's supply right now. You can wait while but not too long. Present prices of canned and frozen peas will probably not go up any until after Easter (if they go up then).

So... you might want to buy a few this week, some more next month and so on. Just remember one little thing: when you buy in quantity... say, by the dozen or by the case, you usually save some "extra" money.

When you shop for peas, perhaps you'll find a brand you've never seen before. Just to be sure, you may want to buy one package and after you've given it the family taste test, then buy in quantity to last awhile.

Why are the big supplies of peas important? Chances are, supplies won't be so big next year. Predictions show that 1959 pea-growing acreage will be 34 the size it was in 1958. That means... enough peas in 1958 but a smaller supply than we have right now.

With a large supply of canned peas at hand we look for different ways of introducing them into our menus. Buttered, creamed or combined with other vegetables—celery, for instance—they serve admirably just as a vegetable. Teamed with seafood, poultry or meats the result can be an exciting main dish. They are equally as effective in soups and salads and a perfect garnish to dress-up a dish. For a taste adventure try peas seasoned with chopped nut, minced parsley, seasoned salt, onion salt, oregano, basil, thyme or savory.
